St. Catherine's Flower Runs on the Wind

Sometimes, the world we know isn't the world that really is. Katherine's world is a world set on the restaurant strip of 39th Street in Kansas City, Mo. It is a world where beings live in mirrors and blue lights offer glimpses of salvation. Katherine's world is a world where God leaves secret messages on men's room walls and a world where Satan lurks in every corner waiting to capture her soul. It is a world where friends are few and becoming fewer as everything she writes about in her fictional short stories starts coming true. Katherine's world is a world that is falling apart, and may soon be destroyed if she can't save the people in her stories from dying and alter the outcome of mankind. She is helpless, confused and lost - but that's not always bad. Because, sometimes, only when something is lost can it be found again. "St. Catherine's Flower" is the quirky and beautifully written novel by Runs on the Wind. This fresh, new literary voice has created a layered and rich novel profound in its impact. It is a novel readers will wish didn't have to end.
