The competitive examinations of today are virtually a race against time. The student is expected to perform an incredible amount of the mathematical world in a very short time. The time available for sorting out one question ranges from 0.50 to 0.75 minutes. Given such a scenario, conventional methods of solving questions seem anachronistic-outdated, to put it simply. A new approach is the need of the hour an approach that is speed oriented yet simple to follow and apply. Each topic of commercial maths is covered. Quick Commercial Maths gives us grit to handle each type. Look out for practice exercises at the end of each chapter.
