This insightful book introduces readers to the common factors influencing European food marketing today including the stagnating volume of food demand, severe competition between suppliers of agricultural and food products, the overall shift in agricultural marketing towards more market-consumer orientation, and the resulting concern about product development, branding, and customer relationships. Major national differences in food and agricultural marketing in each country are also analyzed, in particular, the problems of implementing European Community legislation in the face of tremendous divergences among member countries in their needs, expectations, and priorities. Some of the other important topics covered in this in-depth book include:

- European food consumption and consumers
 - food retailing in Europe
 - the impact of the Common Agricultural policy and other government policies on agricultural marketing
 - the conduct of agricultural marketing institutions and agribusinesses and their marketing performances
