Spencer Kaufman

When I signed on to the NHL, I promised to give 150% to the game. I've done that.

Little did I know, but they would ask more from me than merely my skill on the ice. The team wanted me to be their captain. It's an honor, one I've done my best to fulfill. Although I can't take all the credit, I was there to lead when we won the Stanley Cup.

I'm still at the helm now, when we've hit rock bottom. I know I have let my fears get in the way. I've let down the team, even if they don't realize what I've done.

Now that the new season's underway, I'm being called out. I deserve it. I can deal with that. It won't be easy, but I'll persevere.

What I can't deal with is her.
She surprised me.
She came out of nowhere and blindsided me.

And there's one serious issue.

Now that I have her, I refuse to let her go.

*This is a full-length, standalone novel. It is part of the Austin Arrows series, but can be read independently.
