She Fell For A Boss 3 (Volume 3) K.C. Mills

Miego has found himself in yet another predicament that could threaten his future with Yami, only this time it won't be as easy as he thinks to get out of it. Things really get complicated when Yami shows up and has a plan of her own. Just when Yami starts to open up and allow herself really feel something, she gets hit with the reality that the one good thing she has might be taken away from her. At this point, she decides that is not an option and against Miego's wishes she decides to take matters into her own hands. If she's riding with him then she has to be willing to do whatever necessary, right? Yaz and Memphis are figuring things out, but her past is causing unnecessary problems that Memphis isn't sure he wants to deal with. Yaz finds the answers she looking for about her relationship in the one person who she never really expected to have her back. She quickly realizes that maybe Miego isn't as bad as she made him out to be. As always Train is down for Miego and right there by his side with whatever, whenever. That part is easy. It's his situation with Lisa that is complicating things. He just can't seem to let go of his ways, but with Lisa giving ultimatums he had better figure something out or she may just decide to walk. Money is good and life is even better, so why not take it a step further and bring the opportunity closer to home? Since Black is no longer in the picture, Memphis, Miego and Train decide to take over his territory. That means getting rid of Bank who stepped in, when Black disappeared. Blacks death didn't really affect many, but one person in general is plotting revenge and his eyes are set on Miego. He refuses to let it go and has every intention of making Miego pay for what he has done. One thing is certain, Miego will not let anyone or anything bring harm to his family, and he will paint the city red to protect his loved ones.
