Learning Kicks! is an anthology from the poet-athletes of Dallas SCORES 2005 - 2006 season. This collection includes over 200 third through fifth grade students representing seven Dallas Independent School District schools. Each year students throughout the country participate in America SCORES Power of Poetry and Writing for the Community curriculums. Teams of boys and girls split their after school time between writing workshops, soccer practices and community service activities. This anthology gives a snapshot into their young minds as they learn to express themselves through poetry and make a difference in their neighborhood and broader community.
